Founded by Jess & Jamie.

Jess is a co-founder and runs The Wild Root full-time. She spent five years at St George, working on the client side of London residential developments, and studied interior design part-time alongside her career. She later established a family property development business, from which The Wild Root grew.

Jamie is a co-founder with a background in construction and project delivery. He and Jess met while working on One Blackfriars, where he was a contracts manager for a decorating contractor. He continues in his employed London role during the week and spends weekends at The Wild Root.

For Jess, the move to Buckinghamshire was a return to the area where she grew up, with family nearby. For Jamie, after ten years in London, it was a new home. Their experience of delivering high-end spaces, together with Jess's interest in interiors, shaped a small retreat designed around cooking together, lighting a fire, walking to a local pub and having time to enjoy a morning coffee.

Design and experience

Rise has reclaimed timber interiors, a curved reading nook, stargazing rooflight, hidden projector and a William Holland outdoor spa bath with jets. Dusk has an outdoor copper bath, and Ember an outdoor brass bath. All three have a private indoor bathroom and kitchen.

Haze Sauna offers private sessions; spa treatments are by appointment. Food additions draw on local suppliers including Peterley Manor Farm and Oxmoor Farm where possible.
